

A supplication equivalent to making dhikr all day and all night!

Description

Upon the authority of Abu Umaamah who said: The Prophet i-2 saw me and I was moving my lips so he said:

â What are you saying Oh Abu Umaamah?

I said: â I am remembering Allahâ so he said: â Should I not point you towards that which is more abundant than you remembering Allah all night and day?

You should say:

 $\hat{a}_{0} \notin \emptyset \otimes \hat{U}_{0} \otimes \hat{U}_$

1. The statement milâ a ù ù ù ù ù occurs in supplications relating to extolling the praise of Allah, it is a reference to a great abundance of that praise. Al Khataabi mentioned: â It is an example used to make a reality easier to comprehend. The intent is abundance in number such that if one were to perceive the aforementioned thing as a tangible body then it would fill itâ (See Qurtubiâ sâ Ikmaal Al Muâ milâ (2/391) â © ï, □
